

3 | Conversation 4 | For the Record

The Brief

News from the U.S. and around the world

- 5 | What an attempt to take down the Internet says about cybersecurity
- 8 | Ian Bremmer talks to Singapore's Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong
- 9 | Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti remembers Tom Hayden
- 10 | France closes the Calais refugee camp
- 12 | Spotted: "Abe Lincoln" at a Florida Trump rally
- 14 | Admiral James Stavridis on why Colombia's peace deal matters to the U.S.

The View

Ideas, opinion, innovations

- 15 | Doctors' new guidelines on screen time for tots
- 16 | A pawesome book on the lives of Secret Service dogs
- 17 | When non-experts make better experts
- 18 | How polls have become less reliable
- 19 | Joe Klein: Being an insider would help Hillary Clinton in the Oval Office
- 40 | The case for involving wellness in cancer care

The Features

▣ The Battle for Mosul

Few doubt that Iraq will eventually take back its second largest city from ISIS, but the fighting will be slow and bloody By Jared Malsin 20

New Chances at Life

In 2013, President Obama commuted the sentences of eight nonviolent drug offenders. How six are trying to adjust to life after prison By Maya Rhodan 26

Anxiety High

Experts say anxiety and depression among teens are on the rise, in part because of the way social media has blurred the lines between real life and digital life By Susanna Schrobdsdorff 32

Time Off

What to watch, read, see and do

- 41 | Netflix's Queen Elizabeth II drama, The Crown
- 43 | Season 6 of American Horror Story
- 44 | Mel Gibson's World War II biopic, Hacksaw Ridge
- 46 | "Bibliotherapists" recommend books for various ailments
- 48 | 7 Questions for actor Anna Deavere Smith

↑ Iraqi families displaced by the battle for Mosul gather near Qayyarah on Oct. 24

Photograph by Bulent Kilic—AFP/Getty Images

ON THE COVER:
Photograph by Yasin Akgulyasin—AFP/Getty Images