

PROJECT SPECIFICATION PROPOSAL FOR COMPUTER SYSTEMS AND NETWORK PROJECT

Prepared by: Phuah Kien Sing

ABSTRACT

---

This project is to study on the current available Internet Surfing Speed-up in the current market, which will include the major part of the techniques. An implementation of system for this project will able the web surfer to surf the Internet in a faster way compare to normal Internet surfing by the web surfer. This project report will have the study on the Internet surfing speed-up for current market application, and also the process of developing the project system. This project report have nine chapters will be presented in sequence as same as the project life cycle such as SDLC. All the chapters will be included with the overview and conclusion for the particular research and development. The entire chapters provided will be concentrated in the view of this project author's learning process and development process. The main idea of this project report is to let the reader to understand this project in a sequence way and simple way.