ABSTRACT

Nowadays, crimes are happening all around the world. Everyone is afraid to be walking alone and children were restricted to stay at home for safety reason. The most terrifying moments that one can face is discovering that their relatives have wandered away. In order to deal with this problem, one can learn martial arts to protect themselves when facing danger. However, for those who are not interested in martial arts, stunt gun can be one of the devices which can protect you from those situations.

The stunt gun was designed as a self-defense weapon for use against vicious people or other attacking animals. The device is most effective when the electrodes contact an area of low resistance such as skin or flesh. It can generate great stopping power. One contact will give a powerful shock and should discourage any further attacks.

By just switching on the stunt gun, there will be having a spark travel between the electrodes which show that it is high voltage or high current. By having this device on and pointing to you, I doubt no one will intend to get closed. Or can also be used as a touch light by just adding a light within the stunt gun.

Stunt gun must be used in safety purpose only and it should not be used on children or animal which might cause termination of life. This device may not be against the law, but if it was being used on someone, he or she may be deemed liable as a civil or criminal action suit. It is quite dangerous for people experiencing cardiac problems since it generates some RF. Don't attempt irresponsible actions with this device, it is not a toy.
