

HANDRAIL PAINTING

Prepared by: Yeoh Chuan Loong

ABSTRACT

The details of the handrail painting device will be shown on this report, which consists of the research on the painting device and materials, and the works on the handrail iron beam. The research includes working principles, comparison between apply motor and not apply motor on the painting device, and further improvements.

A step process on the fabrication of handrail painting device will be shown in this project as well. Some diagrams and pictures also attached to give more information idea to understand of the project. The comparison of the apply motor will be presented in the later part of this report.