

WALKIE-TALKIE

Prepared by: Chong Chee Wai

ABSTRACT

Walkie-Talkie, being a common communication device, is a very useful and helpful thing that helps a lot in our working live. It is sued in the job where several people have to communicate constantly to each to other in a certain size of area. For example, in the construction guard where the supervisors of different sections need to communicate to each other to know how their works are going on. In a bank, the security department needs the constant report of safety conditions of all sections in the back. So, walkie-talkies are used to enable the securities report the conditions.

I choose the walkie-talkie as my project because I feel that it is an interesting title for me and I can learn more in the theory of FM wave transmission and reception.