ABSTRACT

This report gives you a gist of my project singularly unique in its own way.

This report not only gives you the description on the project's technical and engineering analysis, but also the design aspect of the project. This report contains the precise engineering procedures to manufacture every physical part of my project and to sustain the mental fitness of myself, because I believe that every project student including i, have undergone a series of hectic time tables.

In this report, however, will show you a good time management to get ahead into things. This project report introduces you not merely to the course of the project, but also to the joy of doing the Ultrasonic Motion Detector
