NETWORK DIAGRAM PROGRAMMING FOR PROJECT MANAGEMENT

Prepared by: Juliani

ABSTRACT

The material in this project report is intended a clear picture and information about Network Diagram Programming for Project Management with Operations Scheduling approaches. It is suitable for anyone who is interested to learn Project Management software.

The content matters represent concept of Project Management approaches for the Network Diagram Programming for Project Management to achieve and how this software being constructed, why using Java language to construct and finally how to analyze it until the final outcome of this software was successfully created.

This Network Diagram Programming for Project Management is user-friendly affordable software that would be able to determine the shortest time to complete a project with available resources with the lowest cost. Unlimited activity can be generated inside a project by using this software since this software use memory of computer as the amount activities to be processed in this software.

Even though this software not as good as the existing Project Management software but at least this software can be used in educational area and for the small and medium size of company since it can calculate the very basic things needed in Project Management.

DIPLOMA IN INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING