

DUST COLLECTOR

Prepared by: Heng Song Hwa

ABSTRACT

In the first section of this report, I will talk about the general information about pulse jet dust collector by describing the characteristic and application of this system. It would be necessary for the readers to relate to some of the invented products using this technology with my project.

Then, I will proceed to the core of my report. I'm going to explain the definition of my project title and reveal the objectives of the investigation I did for my project. By knowing the fundamental information, readers will manage to follow the faster paces that I will implement in the remaining sections of y report. The next followed up section will be my project plan that tells you the main idea about the construction of my project.