ABSTRACT

This documentation is the result of nearly eight months of hard work and diligence of the author in pursuing the Double Module Project. It is arranged in several segments to ensure easy reading and navigation.

The documentation is divided into several main segments, starting from this point forward, which will give a brief outline of the project specification, objectives and research methodology.

The second segment will give a detailed elaboration of the researches carried accompanied by the final result and analysis. The segment mainly provides a mapping and progress overview of the project development carried over the eight months.

The final segment contains the appendix, glossary and references. Listed under the appendix segment, one would find further details regarding the project such as the Gantt chart and some testing results.
