

Unearthing talent at Inti

STUDENTS and staff of Inti College recently put aside their books and pens to take part in Talentime Nite '98 at its campus at Bandar Baru Nilai.

The event, organised by the college's student affairs office, the Staff Recreation Club and Intima, the student government body, proved an ideal opportunity for the students and staff to show off their hidden talents.

After an opening remark from the college's vice-president of administration Dr Lee Fah Onn, the students and staff took centre stage with several musical performances.

The 1,000-strong audience were even treated to a pleasant surprise when lecturer Owen de Cruz displayed his vocal prowess by crooning two Elvis Presley songs.

At the end of the day, the top three prizes were won by students. A group who called themselves the Inti Skeletons won the first prize of RM400 with their rendition of Guns & Roses' Sweet Child O' Mine. Second prize of RM200 was won by Aaron Cheong.

Ong Kok Leong, who performed a Chinese number, bagged the third
