

Students listening intently to a talk on work culture during the career fair.

Students learn about careers

ABOUT 300 Inti College graduates and final semester students were given a glimpse of working life when they met up with officers from 10 companies at a career fair recently.

The students were told what the careers they choose would entail and what was required of them in the corporate world at the Inti Graduates Meet Potential Employers at Inti Career Fair 2000 recently.

Many of the companies also took the opportunity to interview and recruit their staff.

At the end of the session, engineering and IT graduates filled 40% of the 50 job vacancies.