

Building character

A conducive learning environment is not all about state-of-the-art equipment or examinations. It also involves methods that will ultimately lead to character-building - and these invariably involve recreational activities.

At least at Inti College, the student has vast opportunities to be involved in co-curricular activities. It's about bringing on a well-rounded learning experience, after all.

The first month of semester sees a marathon of social events to familiarise the fresh graduate with college life. Like the past year, under its Student Government Body or Intima, 36 clubs and societies were on show.

These clubs organised unique activities that contributed mainly to the students' enjoyment. Some of the activities were Orientation Night, Inti Ball, exhibitions and sporting events.

One of the much-awaited events was the 14th anniversary celebration where participation from Inti International College Penang and its alumni made the event merrier. Staff and students competed at seven sports events to vie for the coveted "overall champion" title.

The college also staged a food fair where a variety show was the highlight. An event that was considered unique and beneficial was the English Language Camp organised by the School of Languages and Liberal Arts at Inti College Malaysia.

A member of the organising committee, Phavani Vijayarajam, described the event as being inspirational.

For competitions and events held outside college, Inti made its presence felt by placing itself in the Guinness Book of World Records and Malaysia Book of Records by constructing a 11.25ft high pyramid structure using 9,455 cans.

In the sports arena, Inti hosted the second Malaysian Association of Private Colleges (MAPCO) Inter-College swimming competition, in which it emerged as the overall champion for the second time.
