NZ Tourism Management at INTI

Recognising the growth potential in the tourism sector, INTI College is now offering a Diploma in Tourism Management in collaboration with Lincoln University and Victoria University of Wellington in New Zealand. The programme, which uses an approach that combines management and business specialisms, explores contemporary issues in tourism and is internationally focused. Upon successful completion of the programme, students can pursue a degree in Tourism Management overseas. As an exciting avenue presented to students, the programme provides a good balance between theory and practical skills related to the tourism sector.

Obtaining a Degree in Tourism Management prepares students for exciting careers in the tourism ministry, tour agencies, hotels and resorts, restaurants, conference centres, sports clubs, entertainment and event management companies, cruiseliners, theme parks, airlines, and education institutions. Core business and management modules help to develop transferable knowledge and skills while the focus on operations, planning and management ensures a breadth to the programme that widens the choice of potential careers. Therefore, graduates' ultimate career destinations are not necessarily limited to tourism.

Extra benefits of enrolling in a tourism management programme include working for one of the world's fastest growing industries and experiencing a flexible and challenging job.
