

Inti College to hold open day

NILAI, Thurs. — Inti College will hold its American Day-cum-Open Day at its Nilai campus on Saturday and its Subang Jaya campus the following day.

The United States is a popular destination for Malaysian students pursuing tertiary education as its universities offer an impressive array of educational opportunities.

For more information on educational opportunities in the US, students are invited to drop by at either campus.

On the agenda are seminars and workshops to help students choose the right programmes, career guidance sessions, parent-to-parent talks and motivational talks.

Representatives of some of the renowned American universities will also be on hand to provide in-depth information.

The event will also feature fun and games such as line dancing, street dancing, rock 'n' roll, balloon art and face painting.

With the objective of promoting American education and the American way of life to interested students and parents, the event is a first time effort integrated along with INTI College's Open Day.

Dr William Borges, the Assistant Director for the American University Programme, said the American degree programme encourages and cultivates critical thinking, flexibility and a holistic education. It also promotes life-long learning.

"I think that many countries around the world are now leaning towards this trend of a holistic education.

"In the American system, we teach our students to learn how to learn and that, in the final analysis, is what American Universities are all about."

The AUP at Inti College is a credit transfer programme which give students a choice of more than 250 universities in which to pursue a wide range of courses from Business, Engineering, Computer Science and Information Technology, Applied Science and Social Science, and Liberal Arts.
