

NIE ... About 200 international students at Inti College had an enriching cross-cultural experience at the college's English Language Camp recently. The students, from the college's various programmes, took part in team-building and self-development workshops.

A group from the School of Languages and Liberal Arts, selected from a similar camp held the previous semester, lined up the activities after a series of brainstorming and problem-solving sessions.

Through the activities, including a treasure hunt and sketches, participants practised using English in different contexts and situations.
