the year and will be a good form of encouragement for them to excel academically," he added.

ICM Administrative Affairs/Student Services Division director Dr Sia Ah Hiok said ICM had undertaken the project because the college recognises that every child must be given the opportunity to realise his/her dreams and become a productive citizen.

In this respect, the college aims to provide sustained educational support to ICM's "adopted children".

Inti staff and students had undertaken community service activities through the individual faculties and societies.

The project team aims to consolidate all the college's community service efforts to create a bigger impact on the Nilai neighbourhood.

To ensure the smooth running of the project, the college is seeking volunteers from among college graduates and lecturers to commit to at least a year of tutoring, mentoring, organising community services and working with families in their abil-
