Inti students let their hair down

A CARNIVAL-LIKE atmosphere enveloped Inti College in Bandar Baru Nilai recently when its premises became the venue for a "street party".

It was held to give the students a well-deserved break from their studies.

The organiser was Inti Hostel Board and the unique idea was mooted by its director of Students Services Division Dr Sia Ah Hlok.

Emulating street parties in New Orleans, the opening act had students gasping in awe at the sight of an illuminated dragon dance which welcomed Dr Sia, who was the guest of honour.

The inaugural event was a first for the college, transforming the streets in front of the hostel blocks into a happening place.

The students enjoyed themselves dancing to the disco music and watching the grooves of a witty deejay.

Several students also did handstands, crowd surfing, somersaulting and generally had fun.

Event adviser M. Ravendiran said the street party provided an all-round entertainment with the open-air movie screening, shopping and music.

He said there were at least 40 stalls selling items such as souvenirs, accessories as well as food and drinks at reasonable prices.

Organising chairman Benny Johan said the event received such overwhelming response that the board was contemplating introducing "Inti Walk" next.
