

Promise of a hilarious good time by college performers

BY JOANNE LIM

FUN TIME: Sedaya Chamber Choir rehearsing for the 'Green Tea' musical from which some songs will be featured at the showcase.

KUALA LUMPUR: Performing arts enthusiasts will be treated to an evening of fun and laughter by the Sedaya Chamber Choir at the Star Education Fair Performing Arts Showcase on Jan 11.

Showcasing a mixture of vocal and instrumental talents, the group of 25 students named "Voices" will feature a quintet about "Ice Kacang" and a selection of songs from their recent musical performance "Green Tea".

"Some of the songs are hilarious and we want the audience to have a good time," said Sedaya International College (SIC) public relations executive Joshua Lee.

SIC is one of three colleges participating in the two-day showcase on Jan 11 and 12 at Pelantaran Putra, Level 2, Putra World Trade Centre.

The other two are Inti College and La Salle International Design School. The event is being held in conjunction with the Star Education Fair 2003 which will feature more than 130 local and foreign institutions in more than 200 booths.

"The students are very excited about their impending performance and are practising more intensely as the day draws nearer," said Lee, adding that the showcase would be for 45 minutes.

"With rehearsals almost everyday, the students are positive they will put up a great show. They don't need intensive practices, as they have been consistent, meeting at least once a week to improve on their skills," he added.

The group also performed at the annual Canada Day celebration in Ampang and was invited to perform in Perak and Sabah this year.

On the content of the performance, Lee said the students used their creativity to come up with ideas they believed would be entertaining.

International students from Inti College will perform a peacock dance while La Salle International Design School will treat visitors to a fashion show.

The Star Education Fair will be held in Penang at Penang International Sports Arena in Relau from Feb 21 to 23.